

Glenda Brion Announces She Will Be Postponing Her Retirement

September 30, 2026 - Glenda Brion, a longtime leader in helping individuals and families transition from homelessness and crisis to stable housing, has postponed her planned retirement and will continue serving as Executive Director of the Community Warehouse Project of Chester County (CWP).

For the past nine years, Brion has been at the heart of CWP's mission to ensure that families emerging from homelessness, crisis, or displacement have access to essential furnishings and household items that transform empty living spaces into safe, stable, and welcoming homes. Her decision to extend her tenure reflects her deep commitment to CWP and to providing continuity as the organization continues to grow and expand its impact.

"Glenda's leadership has always been rooted in compassion and practicality," said Mark Sammarone, Board President of the Community Warehouse Project of Chester County. "Her decision to stay on ensures that our mission continues with the same steadiness, care, and vision that has guided CWP since its beginning. We are grateful for her continued dedication to the families we serve."

Brion said her decision to postpone retirement is driven by her desire to help CWP advance several important initiatives currently underway, including expanded community partnerships and increased volunteer participation.

A new retirement timeline will be announced at a later date.
